Miss Van Wageningen had many curios and costumes, utensils, etc., to show and which vividly illustrated her talk, which was highly enjoyed. Following the talk, afternoon tea was served, the Misses Margaret and Anne McCullough presiding at the handsomely appointed tea table with the pretty decorations of pink and white sweet peas and sweetheart roses. ## FARMERS TO PUT UP FEED STORE

The Accord and Kerhonkson farmers are uniting to form one cooperative organization. The new corporation will be known as "The Roundout Valley Farmers Cooperative, Inc." It will erect a warehouse in Kerhonkson, and will absorb the Accord Farmers Cooperative warehouse in Accord. There will be a man in each warehouse to wait on the people, and Barney Rogovin will be manager of the two places. There will be one board of directors with Kerhonkson and Accord equally represented. There will be one set of books and one treasury. Kerhonkson will have an equal voice with Accord in the management of the business.

Accord already has a successful farmers' cooperative feed, coal, cement, etc. business in operation. Barney Rogovin is managing their cooperative. They have had an expert accountant to install an up-to-date and a suitable and complete set of books for their business. They have had three trial balances and each one shows the business to be in a healthy condition. Accord has a new warehouse nearing completion. All this will be merged into the new and larger corporation to be formed between Accord and Kerhonkson. The Accord Farmers' Cooperative stockholders will have their present certificates exchanged for those of "The Roundout Valley Farmers' Cooperative, Inc." without any cost to them.

The Kerhonkson farmers start this week with their campaign to raise their share of the capital for this Roundout Valley Farmers' Cooperative. The campaign will close Saturday night, December 17th. Terms to solicit subscribers to stock will call on everybody some time during this week. The unit share is five dollars ($5.00). Everyone who subscribes five shares ($25.00) will be made a member of the corporation with the right to vote at all stockholders' meetings. There will be many, of course, who will take more shares than five. But each stockholder will have only one vote. In every case the proper receipts, membership certificates, and stock certificates, will be issued to all for moneys received for shares of stock. The capital stock may carry up to 6% dividend, and in addition some of the net earnings of the corporation may be divided at the end of each year among the patrons according to the amount of their patronage.

Those who take stock will get twice as much of the net earnings as those who do not take stock. Any one, however, can buy from this corporation whether they have stock in it or not.

This matter of combining two or more communities in one corporation is not a new thing. For over a year five communities in Madison county, and three communities in Lewis county, have each been operating under one management, and their business has been wonderfully successful.

DUBOIS G. ATKINS DIED SUNDAY

Was for Long Period One of Most Active Educators in Ulster County.—Was Prominent Lawyer, and Churchman and His Military Education Proved Valuable to Many Organizations.

DUBOIS G. ATKINS.

Dubois G. Atkins, well known as a lawyer and for the past thirty years prominently identified with the management of the Kingston schools through his position as a member of the board of education, died Sunday afternoon at his home, No. 115 Main Street, aged 55 years.

Mr. Atkins had been in failing health for about two years. About two years ago he suffered a breakdown, from which he partially recovered. During September he became seriously ill while at Atlantic City, N. J., and continued to fail after his return to Kingston. For several weeks he had been confined to his home and his death had been momentarily expected for several days.

Dubois G. Atkins was born at Clintonville, Sept. 6, 1866, his family having resided for several generations in Southern Ulster. He attended the district school and later attended the Hudson River Military Academy at Clarksburg, Columbia county. On his graduation from that institution he became a member of the faculty and taught there for a year, having charge of the military department. Then he entered Wesleyan University at Middletown, Conn., where he took the regular college course. On his graduation from Wesleyan, he was principal for one year of the high school at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and for two years was principal of the school at Edenville, Ulster county.

While at the Hudson River Military Academy Mr. Atkins had taken great interest in military matters where his proficiency had secured him a position upon his graduation, and upon the completion of his second year at Edenville he was called to Burlington, Vt., as vice-principal and teacher of mathematics and military tactics.

Mr. Atkins came to Kingston about 1899 and when the Kingston Daily Express was started he became a member of the editorial staff. He continued his work with that newspaper until in 1901 the Kingston board of education appointed him principal of School No. 11 (now School No. 7), which position he continued to hold until the latter part of 1902 when he resigned in order to become deputy county treasurer under Andrew L. F. Devo, who was elected treasurer in the fall of that year.

During his vacations Mr. Atkins studied law in the office of the late Hon. John J. Linsion, completing his studies in the office of the late Hon. Augustus Schoenmaker with whom he remained for some time after his admission to the bar on December 5, 1902.

In 1903 Mr. Atkins became a member of what was then known as the Kingston board of education, which had control of the township schools, and he has since continued as one of the school trustees of the city since that time. He was instrumental in bringing about the consolidation of the Kingston city schools in 1902 and became the first president of the board of education which was created under the consolidated school act. No man in Kingston ever took greater personal or more active interest in the school affairs and he enjoyed nothing more than a visit to any of the city schools. He was personally acquainted with hundreds of pupils who have passed through the city schools during the time he served as a member of the board of education and his advice in graduating classes to many of which he presided their graduation diploma invariably was sound and filled with high ideals.

During all of the time he was connected with the city schools Mr. Atkins took a lively interest in school affairs and he enjoyed nothing more than a visit to any of the city schools. He was personally acquainted with hundreds of pupils who have passed through the city schools during the time he served as a member of the board of education and his advice in graduating classes to many of which he presided their graduation diploma invariably was sound and filled with high ideals.

When the young men of Ulster county began to be drafted for military service in the world war and Kingston turned out to support the contingents to the West Shore railroad station, Mr. Atkins invariably

SUES OVER WATER OF SCHOHARIE

Cohoes Electric Utility Claims It Is Entitled To Water To Be Diverted By New York City's Shandaken Tunnel—Wants Dam Work Stopped And $1,000,000 Damages.

The Cohoes Power and Light Company of Cohoes, N. Y., on Saturday filed in New York city papers in an injunction suit in the Supreme court to restrain the city of New York from diverting the flow of the Schoharie river from the Mohawk river, in which it now flows, to the Shandaken tunnel now under construction by which it will join the Esopus creek at Allaben and thence to the Ashokan reservoir.

The suit is based on the present construction work at Gilboa, by which the Gilboa dam when completed will check the flow of the Schoharie river which will be impounded and then carried through the eighteen mile long tunnel to Allaben. The suit asks the court to restrain the completion of the dam and the Cohoes company also asks damages in the sum of $1,000,000.

The plaintiff claims that its right to use the water of the Schoharie river dates from 1826, when a grant was made by the state of New York to the company's predecessor in title of perpetual rights to all the water flowing through the Mohawk river except what was needed for the navigation of the Erie canal; that a great dam was constructed across the river below Great Falls, and by virtue of other grants and purchases the plaintiff now claims all the water flowing past the Great Falls dam for water power purposes.

In the papers on file it is pointed out that the Schoharie river is an un navigable stream flowing northerly from the Catskill mountains and emptying into the Mohawk river above the power plant now operated by the company and thus the water eventually becomes the property of the plaintiff. By the construction of the Gilboa dam and diversion of the Schoharie river through the Shandaken tunnel from its natural northerly course to a southerly direction, the company claims it will lose nine per cent of the water which now flows through its water wheels at Cohoes to make electric power for Central New York.

The suit is brought because the city of New York has not taken any steps to have appraisers appointed to fix the damage to be sustained by the plaintiff by reason of the diversion of nine per cent of the water it now receives.

was chosen grand marshal of the parades which marked the drafted men's departure from Kingston, and he had few equals in ability in planning and forming parades. Frequently he was called on during the many years he was connected with the city schools to give general military training to young men and to the boys and girls of the schools, and he proved himself in every way capable.

Among the organizations which profited by his military experience and training was the Kingston section of the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias. He joined Franklin Lodge, No. 37, Knights of Pythias, soon after coming to Kingston and quickly became interested in the Uniform Rank. Kingston at that time was the banner city of the state for Pythianism and the Kingston division of the Uniform Rank held first rank for military tactics and appearance. Mr. Atkins served as captain of the Uniform Rank for several years.

In early life Mr. Atkins was active as a Democrat and commanded the Kingston Democratic Centralists, an organization which enjoyed great popularity and was greatly in demand here and in cities for participation in Democratic parades in presidential and gubernatorial campaigns. After the gift of the Democratic party over the adoption of free silver in 1896, Mr. Atkins affiliated himself with the faction of the party known as the Gold Democrats which repudiated William Jennings Bryan, who had been nominated at Chicago by the Democratic national convention. At the close of the war with Spain in 1898 he became a follower and champion of Col. Theodore Roosevelt, whose supremacy as the leading American of his generation he consistently maintained. He remained a Republican to the time of his death.

Mr. Atkins was for many years an active member of St. James' M. E. Church and took a leading part in the work of the church. The Sunday school and the church choir of which he was a member, the official board of the church. His interest in these affairs was evidenced early by his membership in the board of trade and later in the Chamber of Commerce. Socially he was affiliated with the Knights of Pythias.

He is survived by two brothers, Dr. R. T. Atkins and Elmer Atkins, both of New York City, and three sisters, Mrs. M. W. Atkins, who is teaching school on Long Island, Mrs. Susan Atkins and Mrs. Ida Wiggins, both of New York City. ### WORK UNDER WAY ON CHRISTIAN BROTHERS' SCHOOL.

Will Train Young Catholics To Become Teachers.

Ground has been broken for the newest college for the Hudson Valley, that of the Order of Christian Brothers in West Park. The magnificent estate of a late millionaire promoter, John U. Brookman of New York City, Tacoma and Los Angeles, is receiving its first institutional alteration at the hands of workmen from Highland, New Paltz, Kingston, West Park and Poughkeepsie, all under the eye of Brother Ryan, the principal of the order. At the rear of the mansion containing twenty rooms an extension has been started for the accommodation of twenty-five or thirty novices. As nearly as possible the general architecture of the main building is to be followed, and the floors will match those already laid in oak and other hardwoods. The corporate name is that of "The Christian Brothers' Institute," and the purpose is to train young Catholics to become teachers.

"Malvern Hall" was the name given by Mr. Brookman to his residence. The grounds have a frontage of 1,000 feet on the Hudson river, a depth of one and one-half miles, an orchard of twenty acres, a water power brook having a fall of fifteen or twenty feet, 500 acres of arable fields, and ample room for the Brookman forested estate. PRESIDENTIAL "INABILITY."

It appears from Mr. Tumulty's account published in the New York Times of December 3 that President Wilson's dismissal of Secretary Lansing was in part due, as has been suspected, but only in part due to the secretary's efforts to remove Mr. Wilson from the presidential office when he first became ill. Before this effort was made Mr. Wilson spoke indignantly of Mr. Lansing's course in participating in all the conferences in Paris "and then hurrying to America and appearing before the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate to repudiate the very thing to which he had given his assent." Later, while the stricken president was in bed, Secretary Lansing approached Mr. Tumulty and Dr. Grayson, saying that under the provisions of the Constitution the duties of President should now devolve on the vice-president, and suggested that they certify to the "disability" of the president. Both flatly refused, contending that Mr. Wilson was still mentally alert and not wholly out of touch with public affairs. This checked Mr. Lansing's precipitate move.

Commenting editorially on this remarkable incident, without approving of Mr. Lansing's course in this particular case, the New York Times very pointedly says: "Congress ought long ago to have provided for the determination of presidential disability by an impartial tribunal. Failure to do so has not, happily, brought great harm to the country in the past, but it might easily do so in the future. The doubts and fears which were widespread at the time when President Wilson was prostrated would not have arisen if a clear course to follow in such a case had been marked out by legislation."

JUSTICE FOR THE WEAK.

Last July Mrs. Harding received a letter from Mme. C. Bret of Savoy, France, saying that her son, Charles Bret, had been in the United States five years and had been sentenced to prison several times for minor offenses but finally was paroled. While on parole, penniless, unable to obtain work and hungry, the mother said, the boy went into a restaurant in New York, ordered a meal and ate it without having the money to pay for it. As a consequence his parole was revoked and he was sent to Blackwell's Island, New York, to serve an additional two and a half years. Moved to pity by this appeal, Mrs. Harding, while in New York several weeks later, told Mayor Hylan of the letter, enlisted his aid and gave her pledge that if the boy were released she would see that his passage back to France was paid. In consequence the youth was released, sailed for France on November 2, and ere now a sorrowing French mother has been reunited with her errand but too severely punished son.

The chief point of interest in an incident both pathetic and pleasing is the evidence showing that a French youth, who appears to have broken our laws only because he was hard up and hungry, would have spent two and a half more years in prison merely for eating in a restaurant without money in his pocket, had not the kind-hearted wife of the president of the United States intervened. Two and a half years for a meal of victuals openly taken by a hungry and penniless boy far from home!

Why is our punishment for petty offenses so heavy and our punishment of grave offenses—as a rule—so disproportionately light? Why does the big thief of high finance, of the Merve type, get so much mercy—and even pardon when he feigns sickness—while the petty thief's chances of reform are ruined by incredibly long prison terms and the damning effects of police and detective oversight after his release? Often, indeed, the petty offender spends months in prison—if he can not procure bail—before his case comes to trial. It is known, for example, that in New York City two men arrested on the charge of larceny appeared for trial 72 times, always to find that the prosecution was too busy to proceed with their trial. We read that "in discussing the bad bonds of these two men Judge Mulqueen in General Sessions commented that he had never heard of a more ridiculous travesty of justice."

More than once Mr. Taft himself has sharply criticized the administrations of justice in this country and pointed out the need of reform in our methods. Now that he is chief justice, Mr. Taft can speak on this important subject with a greater weight of authority than ever, commanding attention for such suggestions as he may have to make. It is to be hoped that he will not permit the pressure of crowding business to prevent him from doing so, and that good results will follow.

"The man is a Teuton and I shall never again have anything to do with a Teuton," a prominent Philadelphia physician is quoted in reference to the visit of Dr. Adolph Lorenz, the great specialist of Vienna. Dr. Lorenz reveals a much more admirable attitude when he says that war and medical science are incompatible and that the only war among the practitioners of the healing art should be the keenest competition to excel.

The government has outlawed trade in "wine tablets," but is likely to hesitate some little time before consenting to interfere with the raising of those other potential beverages, grapes and corn.

New York girls as well as boys may dream fondly of one day becoming a cop now that 2,200 police-women in uniform guard the street crossings near that city's school houses.

In 1920 alone there were 463 forest fires in the pulpwood regions of this country, burning more than 2,059,408 acres. No wonder the price of news-print paper is high.

A letter mailed in New York 19 years and 5 months ago has just reached Philadelphia. Whether Philadelphia's reputation as a slow city was in any way involved is not stated.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Why do some English sparrows show so much white in their feathers?
2. What is the mating law of the catamount? Polygamous?
3. Please inform me on a plant called Snow-on-the-mountains. I cannot account for its growing so abundantly in my garden this year.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. What do salamanders eat. Are they poisonous?
Said to be cannibal (at least captive specimens are), eat also worms, insects, shrimp, sow bugs, snails, slugs, mussels, and big specimens eat small frogs. No, though the big Hellbender of the Ohio river region can make a sore wound when biting, partly due to mixing its body slime in the wound. Lizards also are non-poisonous, except for the big Gila Monster.

2. Where are otters found?
Nowadays, rare anywhere, as their durable and beautiful fur has caused them to be hunted almost to extermination. Originally native to North America, almost from the Arctic Ocean to Mexico. Their homes are always near water, as the otter lives practically on fish diet, and is aquatic in habit. Its den is a cave or hole under a bank.

3. Do sea gulls follow a vessel through a whole trip, or do they go only part way and pick up some other incoming vessel to return with?

Cases are known where apparently the same gulls followed one ship all the way from the Irish coast to New York harbor. But unless these ship-companions could be tagged in some way, we do not see how it is possible to declare positively the same birds made the passage all the way over, unless they came to the deck or rigging. Gulls can fly great distances, however, and sleep on the water, so they might follow, or conversely, might stay behind, and let the ship pick up a new colony further along the route.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

BIRD SOCIETY NOTES.

"Well," said Mr. Collared Butcher Bird, who was living in the zoo, "I think we should have a Bird Newspaper and report all the important society events which happen in the zoo."

"I've heard people who've come to the zoo, talking about the news they have read in the newspapers, how so and so was married, and how a new little girl arrived at such and such a house."

"It seems to me we should have something of the sort here with news about the zoo."

"Ah," said Mr. Cassowary, "but who would write the news?"

"No one need write it," said Mr. Collared Butcher Bird, "for we will not exactly copy the people with our newspaper. We will have something a little different."

"We will rectify our news instead of writing it or printing it. As we can't write, and as we can't print, it would be better that way."

"I see, I see," said Mr. Cassowary. "Your idea is very good, very good, indeed."

"And," said Mr. Collared Butcher Bird, "we can each tell whatever news we have to tell, just as we would write it or print it if we could write or print."

"We can each speak in turn, and we can call our newspaper 'The Birds' Paper,' or we could call it 'Nature Happenings in Our Town,' or we could call it 'Events of Importance to Those They Concern.'"

"We even might call our paper, 'The Society Paper of the Birds, a Paper Telling of the Society Notes of Interest and Importance in the Bird World.'"

"Good idea," said the Cassowary. "Then, instead of writing our news we will each speak a piece of news or a society note in turn."

"And we might like to give you a little notice," said Mr. Sparrow, who was outside of the Collared Butcher Bird's cage.

"Of course, you would want to be in it too," said the Goldfinch, who was in the park of the zoo, not far from the outside cage yards of the zoo birds.

"And so would you," chirped the Sparrow. "You know you would."

"Room for all," said Mr. Collared Butcher Bird. "Well, I will begin: 'This will be my item of news.'"

"Mr. Collared Butcher Bird, late of Australia, who has recently taken a cage at the Bird Apartments, Zoo Park, wishes to inform his friends that he never weighed the lizards and small birds he ate in the free state, nor charged them to himself. And in spite of his name he never overcharged customers, mainly, he states, because he had no customers."

Then Mr. Sparrow said:

"My item is this: 'The Sparrow Family of Tree Six, River Driveway, had one of their worst quarrels the other day. They claim, however, they can do better still.'"

"My news is this," said Mr. Cassowary.

"Mr. Cassowary, Yard Home, the Zoo, late of New Guinea, recently informed his friends he had swallowed a door-knob. When asked if he felt the effects he said not as yet, though he had swallowed the door-knob four years ago."

"I have something to add," said Mr. Squirrel.

"The Squirrel Family are putting away their winter stock. They will need nothing to be fully prepared to 'squirrel' cookies. Food is warm, they say."

"I will give mine now," said Mr. Goldfinch.

"Mr. Goldfinch is getting out his winter suit and will wear it upon the first cold day. Friends will remember him looking like this quite suit to Mr. Goldfinch with its darker, more subdued plumage."

Then Mr. Sparrow came swinging about.

"I have an item of news," he said.

"The Goldfinch sent a telegram to his friends the other day stating that he had been delayed in his journey but that he might be expected soon. He said he would doubtless be coming with his friend the Sparrow, who had been promised work for the winter."

"Who Would Write?"

SALAD COMBINATIONS.

A head of lettuce with a delicious salad dressing is a dish fit for a king.

One may analyze a dressing and be able to identify all the ingredients, but to put them together with the tang, the flavor, and the tempting manner of the little table d'hôte or tearoom seems impossible.

Many times it is an illusive seasoning hard to describe or identify. Garlic has been tabooed by people who have never tasted it. Simply the mention of garlic is enough to call forth criticism.

Garlic when correctly used makes a delicate, indescribable, appetizing flavor; it is also a natural aid to digestion.

The salad bowl rubbed with the cut side of a clove of garlic is enough to season a salad; more would be too much.

A garlic vinegar is easily prepared and is always ready to add to any salad dressing. To a small bottle of vinegar add a finely sliced clove of garlic, let it stand for three weeks, strain and it is ready for use.

Pear and Tomato Salad.—Peel ripe pears cut in eighths and arrange with ripe tomatoes cut in the same sized pieces on crisp inner leaves of head lettuce. Pour over any well-seasoned dressing. The following is one which will prove a favorite:

Sherry's Dressing.—Take two tablespoonfuls of chopped red and green pepper, both the sweet variety; add one tablespoonful of powdered sugar, a teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of red pepper, one-fourth cupful of good vinegar and one cupful of the best olive oil. One small Southern onion chopped fine. Shake in a pint jar for five minutes, then set away to chill. This will keep for two weeks in the ice chest.

Diced pineapple, green grapes, skinned, halved and seeded; bananas cut in bits, a dozen quartered marshmallows. Add a spoonful of mayonnaise dressing to a cupful of whipped cream and serve in a nest of the heart leaves of head lettuce.

Then Mr. Sparrow said:

"My item is this: 'The Sparrow Family of Tree Six, River Driveway, had one of their worst quarrels the other day. They claim, however, they can do better still.'"

"My news is this," said Mr. Cassowary.

"I have something to add," said Mr. Squirrel.

"The Squirrel Family are putting away their winter stock. They will need nothing to be fully prepared to 'squirrel' cookies. Food is warm, they say."

"I will give mine now," said Mr. Goldfinch.

"Mr. Goldfinch is getting out his winter suit and will wear it upon the first cold day. Friends will remember him looking like this quite suit to Mr. Goldfinch with its darker, more subdued plumage."

Then Mr. Sparrow came swinging about.

"I have an item of news," he said.

SLANDERS ON MANY RACES

People of Most Nations, no Matter of Fact, Are the Reverse of Their Reputations.

The crime of national slanders is a mystery. Some one starts them, others continue them, and the rest of us repeat them as gospel, and give them further currency.

Englishmen are alleged to be supercilious and reserved. Our life on an island is said to be responsible. Rubbish! We have been, and are, the biggest travelers of all nations, observes a writer in London Answers. If Englishmen were shy and reserved they wouldn't have been the pioneers in colonization, empire building, conquest, commerce, and the like.

As a matter of fact, the average Englishman is supersocialable, and if any proof of that is needed it is to be found in the fact that this country is an excellence, the home of sport, port demands sociability. Imagine a tennis boom among "super-shy, reserved" people!

Scotsmen are alleged to be mean—uncareful with the law. Thousands of jokes have been built upon that slander. But, as a matter of fact, the Scot, as all who have had to do with him know, is extraordinarily generous and kind-hearted. Ask the treasurer of any hospital. There's the test.

The Irish are doubly slandered. They are alleged to be a gay, witty race, carefree and careless. This is a slander. The Irish are a sad people, all their beautiful melodies are in a minor key. "Irish humor" doesn't really exist. The Irish are really intensely serious. And as to being "careless," it is a fact that they are witty, clean, and supercilious.

The French are supposed to be irresponsible and excitable. An obvious slander, which the great war killed—ought to have killed.

Then there is the "wily, unspeakable" Turk. For a fact, he is about as simple as they make 'em! The Dutch are alleged to be "stolid," and all that the term implies. It's a slander for the Dutch are very much all here! The tale might be continued, but the result would be the same, whether dealing with the "cute" Yankee, the "emotional" Welshman, the "treacherous" Spaniard, or the "gay" Italian. Slanders all!

Melba Gives Way to Youth.

Mme. Melba said at the close of a concert in Australia, a Melbourne dispatch reports, that she must now make way for younger singers.

Melba made her debut in Melbourne (her birthplace) when she was 6 years old. Owing to her father's opposition she sang only once more in public before her marriage. She was considered in those days to have greater talent as a pianist than as a singer.

When she was 20 years old she went to England, where Sir Arthur Sullivan told her, "In a year I'll put you in the 'Mikado' if your performance equals with your promise." Within a short time, however, she was a brilliant success in grand opera.

Her career in London began May 24, 1898, with a performance of "Lucia." Melba is reputed to be very wealthy. Her jewelry alone is said to be worth $1,000,000.

Pure Radium Color of Silver. Radium in its pure state looks like silver, but it is used in the form of a chloride which resembles common salt. It was discovered in 1898 in Paris by Professor and Mme. Curie. The discovery of the X-ray led up to that of radium. French scientists had investigated a number of chemicals to see if they gave off X-rays. Prof. Henri Becquerel found that a bit of uranium salt gave off the rays. The Curies were assisting Prof. Becquerel. A ton or two of the residue from the mine after the uranium had been removed was placed at their disposal. After months of analysis Mme. Curie isolated a few crystals. These were found to be two elements new to science, one of which Mme. Curie named polonium in honor of her native country, and the other, discovered later, radium. Polonium has since been found to be a product of the destruction of radium.

Movie 4,000 Years Old.

The movie industry is four thousand years old, according to a story told recently by J. Stuart Blackton. Ramesses, a Pharaoh of the Egyptians, "put on" the first movie. It was displayed on the outer wall of the temple at Thebes, according to Mr. Blackton. Starting at one end of the wall and extending to the other there is still to be seen a row of figures of the great Ramesses, 126 of them, beginning at one end with Ramesses, hands down and head looking rigidly "off left" and changing the pose gradually in each figure. As the ancient Egyptians rolled by in their chariots and passed an eye along the row of figures old Ramesses seemed to them to move, and as the last figure slipped by they saw Ramesses finally, the first of the movie stars, with his hand fully outstretched and his head completely turned.

Character Shown by Blue Eye.

A blue eye shows the person to be of a meek and gentle temper, affable and good-natured, credulous though not capable of violent attachments, ever modest, cool and undisturbed by turbulent passions, endowed with a strong memory, in constitution neither robust nor delicate, subject to no violent impressions from the vicissitudes of life, whether good or bad. Equanimity is the ruling characteristic.

Mark Twain's Idea of What Arthur's Court Was Like.

The plumbing was bad in King Arthur's Court.

There was no telephone system.

The brave knights, the flower of chivalry, spent their time—

1. Eating.
2. Drinking.
3. Slaying dragons.
4. Rescuing damsels.
5. Fighting.

There were no carpets on the floor of King Arthur's Court—only rushes.

None of the knights thought it worth while to learn to read and write.

Not one of them knew the difference between a carburetor and a spark plug. They believed that Merlin was a mighty powerful magician.

Until the Yankee arrived. He taught them different.

First he put the plumbing to rights. Then he pulled the great magician's whiskers. Then he installed telephones throughout the realm. Then he improved the knights' table manners. Then he took on a few knights in a tournament, and licked them single-handed. Then he mounted the celebrated flower of chivalry on motor-cycles.

All this was even as Pie unto him.

When he had nothing else to do he did a job or two of rescuing, and one fair damsel was so grateful that she fell in love with him.

His title was "Sir Boss," and his uniform consisted largely of a top hat and a pair of garters. This was considered a very dignified get-up, and it did his reputation among the knights a lot of good.

All this is the product of the master brain of Mark Twain, America's greatest literary figure and the world's greatest humorist. Mark Twain wrote his masterpiece, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," to prove that the present is the best of all possible times to live in, and that the Age of Chivalry was not all it is cracked up to be. The screen version conveys the message that Mark Twain conveyed in words, with every thrilling moment, every laugh provoking incident and all the rollicking fun of it, in visual form.

When You Telephone Out of Town

When you make a telephone toll call there are two classes of calls at your disposal — "station-to-station" and "person-to-person."

A station-to-station call is one where you do not specify that a particular person is to be reached. Just ask the operator for a certain number and she will connect you with whoever answers that telephone. Charge is made if the connection is completed.

For a person-to-person call, tell the operator the name of the person you want to speak with and his telephone number or address. If possible, she will get the particular person on the wire. If communication is so established the regular toll charge will be made; if the person cannot be reached a small charge is made for the report.

The rates for station-to-station calls during the day are generally one-fifth less than the rates for person-to-person calls and are still lower at night. Less operating work is required and more rapid service can be given on station-to-station calls, but toll charges for such calls can not be reversed.

The next time you telephone out of town bear in mind that these two classes of toll calls are at your disposal.

TRIBUTE TO DEAD

German Writes of American Cemetery in France.

Spot Where More Than 21,400 of the Bravest of Our Land Are Buried, in Field of White.

Paul Block, Paris correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt, was recently a sympathetic observer of the destruction wrought by his countrymen in northern France, and sent to his paper a detailed report of his trip through the devastated region. Of a certain point in his journey he writes: "The guide relates in a matter-of-fact way that of the 131 villages which he covers in his trip some eighty have been utterly destroyed. This part of the journey, from Clermont-Artois to Bourenville, has all been wrecked by the war, but the worst came after we reached Varennes. From there to Verdun it is a desert—over which the horsemen of the Apocalypse have swept."

Only one point is there any evidence of restoration, and this has become one of the sights of the region. I mean the American cemetery at Boulogne, below Montfaucon. When the Americans take anything up they do it in a wholesale way. Although we had come solely to see ruins, we could not pass this cemetery without a visit. It is the only one of its kind.

On a gently rising hill purchased outright for this purpose are buried the 21,400 Americans who fell during the fighting around Montfaucon. Some skeletons before we reached this point we noted little white signposts along the road directing us to this gigantic graveyard for many of the heroes of the fallen cross the sea in order to visit the last resting place of those dead to them.

But when you come within half a mile of the point you need no further guidance. An apparently limitless field of white suddenly greets the vision in the distance. This is the effect of the 21,400 tombstones of equal size shining in the sunlight. There are crosses for protestants and Catholics, and stars for Jews, ranged closely side by side at the heads of 21,400 uniform, well-kept graves. They all lie there, the officers in the middle. A great star of foliage plants separates the world of the dead from the world of the living. High above the graves flutters the Stars and Stripes. Sad, indeed, as is the thought that a whole army of vigorous young boys here slumber in death, this cemetery has nothing gloomy about it. It is a bright and cheerful burial place.

And the army of the dead has its commander. An American officer and his staff reside in the group of tidy houses opposite the entrance, to guard the resting place of their dead countrymen. One of them came forward and greeted us, a cheerful, young man with a wholesome ruddy countenance. What had induced him to exile himself here in this solitude? High pay? A sense of duty? Love for France? The last suggestion is not very plausible, for he does not know a single word of French. In any case, his nerves must be sound, else he could not live here day after day, hour after hour, guarding these 21,400 graves, without going mad.

Comment Not Needed.

I see that Dr. Schussler who has had access to documents relating to the quarrel between Bismarck and the Kaiser, has published in Germany a new political study entitled "The Fall of Bismarck." writes a correspondent. But surely no addition is needed to Bismarck's own words to Dr. Moritz Busch, on the day of his resignation: "I thought he would be thankful if I were to remain with him for a few years, but I find that on the contrary, he is simply longing with his whole heart to be rid of me. In order that he may govern alone—with his own genius—and be able to cover himself with glory. He does not want the old Mentor any longer, but only the tools. But I cannot make genuflections, nor crouch under the table like a dog."

New Anesthetic.

A coal tar chemical for the elimination of all pain in dental surgery is announced. This new chemical is liquid in form is applied on a pellet of cotton to the gum or mucous membrane surrounding the tooth to be anesthetized or into a cavity prior to excavation where a tooth is to be filled or treated. It produces complete local anesthesia in from two to eight minutes, and eliminates all feeling for from one to six hours. Dr. Klein has extracted teeth and pulps painlessly by the use of this chemical. Its effect is entirely local so it may be applied with perfect safety, regardless of the patient's age or general physical condition. It leaves no disagreeable after effect.

Be Vacation-Minded

It is unfortunate that every individual cannot have a real vacation away from his business. But for those who cannot to be vacation-minded, and to keep that way as long as they possibly can, is the next best thing.

Few businesses are so active in the summer time that a little let-down in hours and attention will do any great harm. So why not shorten hours and let down a bit performing only such part of the day's labors as are absolutely necessary to maintain the existence of the undertaking and letting every other detail go? The time gained should be spent like any vacation time, in the coolest and pleasantest spots possible.

Nothing is surer than that work will be there when you get back. The Lord saw to that when he sent you forth to earn his bread in the sweat of his face.—Concord Monitor.

Manhood's First Moment.

An infant attains his majority on the first moment of the day before his twenty-first birthday. Thus, an infant born on October 31, 1900, a couple of minutes before twelve o'clock of the night of that day, would attain his majority on the first moment of October 30, 1921, although it will be forty-eight hours, less two minutes, before he will have lived for twenty-one years.

The Willow

The weeping willow, like the robin which is the first bird to be heard in the morning and the last to cease its song at night, is the first to show its green leaves in the spring and the last to lose them in the fall, the emerald remaining until the first heavy frost in November and then slowly turning russet brown until its complete defoliation in December.—Frank T. Koon.

Explaining Earth's Attraction.

All bodies fall to the ground in consequence of the power of the earth's attraction on each of its particles, everything else being equal or the same, all bodies, great and small, light and heavy, ought to fall with equal rapidity. The fact that a stone falls more rapidly than a feather is due solely to the unequal resistance opposed by the air to the descent of these bodies. In a vacuum all bodies fall with equal rapidity.

CLOGGED BLOOD WITHERS THE BODY

Workers Sick and Weak From Exertion Take Gude's
Pepto-Mangan

Men and women who toil, either physically or mentally, use up energy. When they overwork they use up more energy, and sometimes the blood gets in a run-down condition. Without rest the blood cannot get back to normal, so that it becomes clogged with waste matter from over-exertion.

The clogged blood virtually withers the body. The strained looks on pale faces, the thin, bloodless arms, the sunken cheeks and necks, the dead-tired feeling, are the results of stale blood depriving the system of life-giving oxygen.

Workers go to the drug store and get Gude's Pepto-Mangan when they feel weak and run down. They take it in either the liquid or the tablet form. That makes the blood rich and red and drives out the poisons. Life-giving oxygen, carried by the little red cells, renews the strength and builds up the entire system. Look for the name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package—Advertisement.

MORGENWECK BUSY SCOUTING

Simpson, New Centre, Will Play At Armory Tuesday Night—Others In Prospect—Has No Intention Of Quitting And Will Yet Produce Winning Team.

College Point, L. I.,
December 11, 1921.
Sporting Editor, Daily Freeman,
Kingston, N. Y.
Dear Sir,

I just returned from a trip from Paterson and Atlantic City for new players for the Kingston team.

I have succeeded in signing up Simpson to jump centre for us commencing at our game in the Armory Tuesday night. I also secured a verbal promise from Artie Powers and Benny Borgman also of the famous Powers Brothers team to come up with me commencing from January 2nd on. I have been after those two boys all season but both found that they could not get away from their work to make the trips but after our conversation last night, which of course also meant the best financial arrangements to them, they said that they would be able to make arrangements after the holiday rush is over to get a three months leave of absence and join my team. This Powers brothers team composed of

Arthur and Charlie Powers, Benny Borgman, Bobby Harnica, George Artus and George Simpson, have been the best attraction for New York and vicinity teams for the last two years. When I saw them Saturday night, they played in Youkers and defeated that team. They also were the team that Babe Ruth played with for a few games last winter.
As Charlie is playing with Gloversville now, the others are getting anxious to also get into the league and it was only a matter of their positions that have kept them away from me this long.

I have also secured a promise from a young fellow that played with the Husta brothers in Egg Harbor N. J. where I was today that he would try and arrange to come up after the holidays. This young man's name is Charlie Kuehnle, nicknamed "Can" Kuehnle, about 6'0" tall, plays guard and jump centre and the only bad feature is that his folks are very wealthy and that if he really decided to come, he will have trouble winning over his mother to allow him to come. I saw his mother today (they are old friends of my family) and she is not very much pleased to have her son play but as he is anxious to come up I think it will work out.

With the addition of Simpson Tuesday night I feel sure our team will set a new pace and if Powers and Borgman can arrange their matters to come up after New Year's we will have a good chance to win out the second half of the playing season.

Will you also kindly contradict the story you had in your papers last week that the Kingston team anticipated to disband. I do not understand how such a rumor could originate. I am the sole owner of the franchise, there is no other interested in it and I surely have made no such announcement and in fact had not even considered any such move. Any change would have to originate from me and it would be given to the newspapers by me.

It appears as if someone in Kingston has tried to start something. I would never quit now under any conditions until I succeeded in doing what I always did before in Kingston and that is to show a team that is a winner and before this season is much further advanced, I feel sure that I will succeed.

Will you also kindly keep it before the fans that our game this week was changed to Tuesday night instead of Wednesday night on account of Armory inspection over which I have no jurisdiction and that I hope thereafter to have all home games played Wednesday nights.

Very truly yours,
FRANK MORGENWECK, Mgr.

P. T. A. School No. 6.

The Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 6 will meet Tuesday afternoon, at the school, at 3:30 o'clock. A musical program will be rendered at this time. Isabelle Scudder will sing a solo and Frank Lund will play a violin solo. Final arrangements for Christmas will also be made at this time and a large attendance is urged.

Chicago.—Women strikers played a prominent part in the stockyards strike here in protest against wage reductions brought about through the "shop representation" plan.
Union officials contend that approximately 19,000 men are on strike, with almost as many women from the packing house district. The rioting is reported to be almost as violent as the race riots in 1919.
Many have been injured in clashes with the police and strike-breakers.
The photos show a group of women leaders of the riots from the packing house district who were arrested, and one of the strikers who were injured.
His wife still clings to him.

A WORD OR TWO OF SERVICE.

Lucky, Platt & Company is operated for the benefit and convenience of its patrons.
Without patrons—there can be no Lucky, Platt & Company.
These are simple facts easily understood.

New customers are just as valuable to us as old customers for each new customer is an old customer in the making.

A store has many things to sell, and it must also have service. The store that sells poor merchandise is a poor store, the store that sells good merchandise is a good store. The object of Lucky, Platt & Company is to sell its patrons the very best values in everything.
The service of Lucky, Platt & Company is not a thing supplied by any single individual.
It is not special attention to any particular patron. Store service—that is Lucky, Platt & Company service—means the limit of courteous, efficient attention from each particular employee to each particular customer. This is the kind of service a patron pays for when he makes a purchase in this store, whether it is a 20c purchase or a $200 purchase. Every customer who enters Lucky, Platt & Company's store comes in because he believes he can buy something here better than he can buy it anywhere else. And it is our aim to make it so.

In ending, please let us advise you, that with our great stock of merchandise, and our efficient service, come many new lines, and a stronger service for the Christmas Shopper.

LUCKEY, PLATT & CO.

and had you thought of giving a for it lasts throughout the year.

And for the youngsters—it's just the thing—almost better than a book—a subscription to the "St.

And they'll grow to love them so—they'll look for them each

LUCKEY, PLATT & COMPANY, Poughkeepsie, New York.

In some manner fire started in the camp Sunday and before it was under control and finally extinguished six of the houses had been destroyed. The camp consists of about a score of laborers' houses beside the other company buildings. Inquiry at the offices of the Glen Construction Corporation at Allabon this morning as to the seriousness of the fire brought out the information that the fire would not cause any delay as only quarters for the employees were burned. A large force of men were immediately put on the job to re-build the houses.
